

MODULAR DESIGN

expands

PHOTO BLOCKS BECOME CONTENT MODULES.

MODULAR DESIGN FOSTERS A TEAM APPROACH.

coverage and design options.

NEWSPAPERS PIONEERED THE MODULAR APPROACH.

FROM TRADITIONAL TO MAXIMIZED, MODULAR DESIGN APPROACHES OFFER FLEXIBILITY.

THAT TER-

RORISM IS

REAL.

There were moments that changed lives. each and everyone of us in one way or an-There were moments that changed history. other," said Starla Vanscoy, 12. "But the And there were moments that changed nations

The terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon on Sept. 11, 2001, were all three.

"It (the attacks) made me realize that terrorism is real," said Crystal Zehm, 12:

But the healing was beginning, even though the physical and emotional scars remained. Crystal Zehm, 12 An example of this was the assembly the administration held on the morning of Sept. 11, 2002--one year after the attack.

"I believe that September 11th affected 2002.

LEAN ON ME

lennifer Dozier, 12, Rachel Tarvin, 12, and Emma Taylor, 11, hold hands in a show of support at the assembly After the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon in 2001, students were urged to find support in family, friends, and counselors.

administration and the students presented themselves better than T MADE ME ever before," she continued. As Jason Howard, 12, said, REALIZE "[It] made America realize that this country is not everything and our country is the same as the other inferior, terrorist nations." In one sense this was true because the attacks made the nation feel vunerable.

However, the student body also proved Howard wrong because the U.S. was different from other countries in the way both a country and a high school came together Sept. 11,

14 9111 CEREMONY

TRUE BLUE LupeSoto, 11, stands during a moment of silence at the 9/11 assembly. He showed his American spirit with his prominately red white and blue ensemble.

WE THE PEOPLE BillStringer speaksto the student body. He related his speech to the Gettysburg Address. "I think Lincoln was trying to say 'This will not deter us.' I was trying to think what was important for the 16, 17 and 18year-olds I was talking to. The important thing was for them to understand their responsibility to their country," Stringer said.

MY AMERICA Audrey Weems, 12, Miki Thompson, 12, and Liz Heeney, 12, sing "God Bless America." The trio

9/11 CEREMONY 15

1 2 3 Design 3

TRADITIONAL APPROACH: Features mainly traditional photo, story and caption modules.

challenges CHANGE

Switch from spring to fall season schedule causes both positive and negative reactions from scholastic athletes

The season switch was a positive change in the end.

The weather was better and it gave some players who would not normally get to play

-Senior Cody Johnson

a chance to COMpete.

Change has often been thought of as a step in a new ection, but with the positive, the hardships came along as well. For the boys and girls golf teams, the switch from a spring to fall season brought on new obstaclos.

The teams suffered a loss of players because of the graduation of past seriers and new choices for other fall sports. Many of the golfers on the boys team chose to play football, while the girls lost golfors to the volleyball program as well as not being oble to replace seniors from the previous spring. Sophomore Charlie Marsik said, "The season switch was a bad decision because there were some football players who could not participate and ultimately, it hurt the entire team." Because of the low turn out and a lack of inexperience for the girls, a regular team was not formed. "The beam had lost three or four seniors last spring, and I was the only freshman, so we didn't have a lot of experience. We struggled with talent and had a hard time playing without a consistent team," said freshman Magdalone Bettrone

The boys had plenty of participants and worked hard as a team. Many of the golfers had never traveled prior to the season and found themselves in a competitive position because of new openings. "Only two of the gollers on the team had traveled before, so we didn't have a lot of experienco going into the tournaments," said junior John Beltrone

At the Butte Invitational, the boys golfed in the 70s, achiev-with tournaments, which made keeping up with school work somewhat difficult. Junior Whitney Tronson said, "Sometimes the teachers got annoyed because we were always gone. One week we didn't go to school for four days, so we team suffored a disappointment when they placed only eighth out of the 13 teams. The girls lacked the number of ended up having a lot of make up work.

It felt like we were never there and

The switch did prove its positive there was constant work to finish."

points, though. The weather was an improvement from the snowy spring

the golfers had previously experienced. Sonior Cody Jehnson said, "The courses were in hetter shape her aute the grass in the spring was still in a donmant stage. We also didn't have such a problem with playing in the cold and tournaments getting snowed out."

At the state teamament, the boys

ing par or less on every hole and taking third place. The teams also had to deal with a new schedule packed

Studies I Lifestyles Sports X-Country I Volleyball PUTTING IT IN Senior Scott Audet eyes down a practice. As the season made an appearance in Billings at the AA State Clubs I People I Cheerleading w they finishe Boys' Team Scores Golf Great Falls Invite 13th out of 16 11th out of 15 Helena Invite Billings Invite 6th out of 7 Missoula Invite 12th out of 14 3rd out of 13 Flathead Invite 7th out of 17 2 State/Billings 8th out of 13 ĝ Girls' Scores State/Billings Tina Bickford 2nd place There just weren't enough girls who could score low enough make the team. Before state. one team member didn't want to mis omecoming, so after that, only two wore loft." Frushman Mapdale

107

1 2 3 Design 3

EXPANDED APPROACH: Features a more traditional look while incorporating several content modules.

123 Design 3

MAXIMIZED APPROACH: The ultimate verbal and visual display; all modules present content.

Content modules are MINI-DESIGNS a

MODULAR DESIGNS ARE BUILT USING A THREE-LAYER APPROACH.

BASIC DESIGN STRATEGIES AND RULES APPLY TO MODULES AND SPREADS.

- built on
 - base layer of
 - vertical columns
 - and horizontal
 - grids.

SUBTLE REPETITION IS The individually THE KEY TO VISUALLY UNIFYING CONTENT MODULES. designed A HEADLINE VISUALLY AND modules must VERBALLY UNIFIES THE SPREAD. work together to STORY MODULES FEATURE create VISUAL MINI-HEADLINES AND PHOTOS. UNITY on PHOTO MODULES ARE ENHANCED BY DOMINANCE AND EYELINES. a spread.

Students like Janice Patel and Cynthia Nixon eniors, chose to take extra classes during the ummer. Many students used the summer to ork toward extra credits for graduation

SUMMERSUNSATIONS

The choices seemed endless.

With the arrival of summer it was WORK or PLAY, BEACH or BUM

After 180 days of homework majority crawled out of bed well hassles and trying tests, students trashed pencil and paper transforming while only a very few kept the same themselves into party animals. From schedule of the academic year. late and lazy sleep-ins to fun in the sun in exotic locations such as out of bed until after lunch. It was heaven. Dad let me stay up as late as Hawaii, vacationers took the business of pleasure seriously. wanted, but Mom always woke me up before she left for work and left

"The week school ended my dad and I went to Oahu. It was amazing. He let me take my best friend Jenny and we spent everyday on the beach watching the surfers. I got up earlier during the summer to watch the incredible sunrises than I did during the regular school year. Is that sick or what?" senior Cate Humpage said. While three out of 10 traveled abroad during the summer, the other seven stayed close to home taking advantage of local events and area parks and lakes.

nmer ever since I had my license

A commanding 82% sleepyhea

an entire week. We would just about after the traditional start of school master a sequence of plays and then one of us would be gone with the family or off to a summer camp,' "Some days I didn't even get Terry Keifer said.

Popular summer trips included attending Young Life Camp or Camp Fitch, spending the night at Cedar Point, flying down to Florida, driving to Virginia or getting dragged along on college campus tours.

"I did different fund-raising activities for Young Life camp, but it was worth it. We did everything there; the swimming was unbelievable and everyday," sophomore Joey Glase said. "My favorite part was working with the younger kids; they know how to live it up at camp."

After 95 days of some work and mostly play, summer sizzle fizzled and over 90% dreaded the 8-4 routine of back-to-school on D(readed)-day. September 3.

After 180 days of homework hassles and trying tests, students trashed pencil and paper transforming themselves into party animals. From late and lazy sleep-ins to fun in the sun in exotic locations such as Hawaii, vacationers took the busines

Hunting for the perfect surf, Jennifer Saunders, junior, watches as the early morning tides start to rise. Jennifer would often head to the beach early in the morning to practice her surfing

For three years Samantha Little has worked at the Publix grocery store as a checker Samantha spent the summer as a floor trainer for the store and recieved a raise Her hourly pay was $7.20.

Repairing a 15 speed bike for a customer is sophomore Jordan Catalano. Jordan worked for his father at the Spin Your Wheels locaion on Central Avenue.

With only two minutes to spare. Andrew Cooper finishes boxxing up the last pizza that was to be delivered to the youth rally Andrew worked at Domino's pizza and preared an average of 216 pizzas during his

1 2 3 Design 3

LEVEL ONE: The dominant module now features a montage, replacing a single photo with four images.

"This proved to be the best and a car for the first time. I asked my mom if I could drive to the concert in Chicago and when she said 'yes", I freaked out. I just knew she wouldn't let me even though it's only an hour away," Cameron Larsen said.

Katherine Feather admitted her wish to be in Stephanie's situation. "We had cross country practice every morning at 5 a.m. to beat the heat. Then I would rush home to shower and go to work until eight or nine," junior Katherine Feather, who worked at Dog on a Stick at the Mall, Soccer and football players oined other summer athletes as they attempted to balance training schedules and social lives while coaches struggled with team

me notes of stuff to do. Not a bad life

considering I got in about four hours

of sun everyday," Stephanie Sanchez,

who was envied by others, said.

SUMMER SUNSATIONS

me notes of stuff to do. Not a bad life

considering I got in about four hours

of sun everyday," Stephanie Sanchez,

wish to be in Stephanie's situation.

"We had cross country practice every morning at 5 a.m. to beat the heat. Then I would rush home to Soccer and football players

Katherine Feather admitted her

who was envied by others, said.

The choices seemed endless

With the arrival of summer it was WORK or PLAY, BEACH or BUM.

After 180 days of homework majority crawled out of bed well hassles and trying tests, students after the traditional start of school trashed pencil and paper transforming while only a very few kept the same themselves into party animals. From schedule of the academic year. late and lazy sleep-ins to fun in the sun in exotic locations such as out of bed until after lunch. It was Hawaii, vacationers took the business heaven. Dad let me stay up as late as of pleasure seriously. wanted, but Mom always woke me up before she left for work and left

"The week school ended my dad and I went to Oahu. It was amazing. He let me take my best friend Jenny and we spent everyday on the beach watching the surfers. I got up earlier during the summer to watch the incredible sunrises than I did during the regular school year. Is that sick or hat?" senior Cate Humpage said. While three out of 10 traveled abroad during the summer, the other shower and go to work until eight or seven stayed close to home taking nine," junior Katherine Feather, who advantage of local events and area worked at Dog on a Stick at the Mall. parks and lakes. said "This proved to be the best nmer ever since I had my license oined other summer athletes as and a car for the first time. I asked my they attempted to balance training mom if I could drive to the concert in schedules and social lives while coaches struggled with team Chicago and when she said 'yes", I freaked out. I just knew she wouldn't members taking off for a week-long let me even though it's only an hour acations away," Cameron Larsen said.

"Practices were tough, especially when one of us had to be gone for A commanding 82% sleepyhead an entire week. We would just about master a sequence of plays and then one of us would be gone with the family or off to a summer camp,' "Some days I didn't even get Terry Keifer said.

Popular summer trips included attending Young Life Camp or Camp Fitch, spending the night at Cedar Point, flying down to Florida, driving to Virginia or getting dragged along on college campus tours.

"I did different fund-raising activities for Young Life camp, but it was worth it. We did everything there: the swimming was unbelievable and everyday," sophomore Joey Glase said. "My favorite part was working with the younger kids; they know how to live it up at camp."

After 95 days of some work and mostly play, summer sizzle fizzled and over 90% dreaded the 8-4 routine of back-to-school on D(readed)-day, September 3.

After 180 days of homework hassles and trying tests, students trashed pencil and paper transforming themselves into party animals. From late and lazy sleep-ins to fun in the sun in exotic locations such as Hawaii, vacationers took the business

Hunting for the perfect surf, Jennifer Saunders, junior, watches as the early morning tides start to rise. Jennifer would often head to the beach early in the morning to practice her surfing.

For three years Samantha Little has worked at the Publix grocery store as a checke Samantha spent the summer as a floor trainer for the store and recieved a raise Her hourly pay was $7.20.

V

Repairing a 15 speed bike for a customer is sophomore Jordan Catalano. Jordan worked for his father at the Spin Your Wheels location on Central Avenue.

With only two minutes to spare, Andrew Cooper finishes boxxing up the last pizza that was to be delivered to the youth rally Andrew worked at Domino's pizza and prepared an average of 216 pizzas during his

1 2 3 Design 3

LEVEL TWO: A photo block is replaced with a quick read story presentation featuring two photos.

Corey Haim grabs the bottom of his board as he jumps over the wave left by a boat. B>

Demonstrating extreme skills on his boggie board, sophomore Bruno Martinez takes his water park. C> On Tenkiller Lake all day with his parents and four brothers, junior

Ben Childress prepares to help secure the boat at the dock. D> To master his the driver as he finishes one maneuver skiing skills, senior Mark Robinson signals turn on the artificial wake at 'Water World'

what a chore!

WHAT

WHEN

Feeding his horse Max

Cleaning up the dishes

July 4th celebration

123 Design 3

LEVEL THREE: An infograph is added, allowing facts and figures to be presented in a visual way.

what a chore!

WHAT

Feeding his horse Max Cleaning up the dishes

I> Cameron Park Stables WHEN

July 4th celebration

Φ

ā

turn on the artificial wake at 'Water World' water park. C> On Tenkiller Lake all day with his parents and four brothers, junior Ben Childress prepares to help secure the boat at the dock. D> To master his skiing skills, senior Mark Robinson signals the driver as he finishes one maneuve

SUMMER SUNSATIONS

who was envied by others, said.

Katherine Feather admitted her

The choices seemed endless.

With the arrival of summer it was WORK or PLAY, BEACH or BUM.

After 180 days of homework majority crawled out of bed well after the traditional start of school hassles and trying tests, students trashed pencil and paper while only a very few kept the same transforming themselves into party schedule of the academic year. animals. From late and lazy sleep-ins to fun in the sun in exotic locations out of bed until after lunch. It was such as Hawaii, vacationers took the heaven. Dad let me stay up as late as business of pleasure seriously. I wanted, but Mom always woke me up before she left for work and left

"The week school ended my dad and I went to Oahu. It was amazing. me notes of stuff to do. Not a bad life He let me take my best friend Jenny and we spent everyday on the beach watching the surfers. I got up earlier during the summer to watch the incredible sunrises than I did during the regular school year. Is that sick or what?" senior Cate Humpage said.

every morning at 5 a.m. to beat the While three out of 10 traveled heat. Then I would rush home to abroad during the summer, the other shower and go to work until eight or seven stayed close to home taking nine," junior Katherine Feather, who worked at Dog on a Stick at the Mall, advantage of local events and area parks and lakes. said.

"This proved to be the best summer ever since I had my license joined other summer athletes as and a car for the first time. I asked my they attempted to balance training mom if I could drive to the concert in schedules and social lives while Chicago and when she said 'yes", I coaches struggled with team freaked out. I just knew she wouldn't members taking off for a week-long let me even though it's only an hour vacations. away," Cameron Larsen said.

A commanding 82% sleepyhead

an entire week. We would just about master a sequence of plays and then one of us would be gone with the family or off to a summer camp," "Some days I didn't even get Terry Keifer said.

Popular summer trips included attending Young Life Camp or Camp Fitch, spending the night at Cedar Point, flying down to Florida, driving to Virginia or getting dragged along on college campus tours.

considering I got in about four hours of sun everyday," Stephanie Sanchez, "I did different fund-raising activities for Young Life camp, but it was worth it. We did everything there: wish to be in Stephanie's situation. the swimming was unbelievable and "We had cross country practice everyday," sophomore Joey Glase said. "My favorite part was working with the younger kids; they know how to live it up at camp."

After 95 days of some work and mostly play, summer sizzle fizzled and over 90% dreaded the 8-4 routine Soccer and football players of back-to-school on D(readed)-day, September 3.

After 180 days of homework hassles and trying tests, students trashed pencil and paper transforming themselves into party animals. From late and lazy sleep-ins to fun in the sun in exotic locations such as

"Practices were tough, especially when one of us had to be gone for Hawaii, vacationers took the business

1 2 3 Design 3

• LEVEL FOUR: A timeline is included. There are 19 photos on this spread using a maximized approach.